United States vs. Five Hundred Cords of Wood.

"The United States vs. 500 cords of roed" is the title of a suit filed in the said in the complaint of any other at the treatment they received. parties to the sui'. The question to be determined is the ownership of the wood. The government claims it beland. If the government wins the wood will to advertised and sold. If the government loses the parties who cut it will come forward and claim it.

The "500 cords of wood" will rely not timber, a contention in which it is supported by a decision of the Territorial Supreme Court a couple of years ago. The government will try to everturn that decision by betanical front. and other authorities, proving that which must be timber.

The outcome of the suit is of great importance to Phoenix as well as to most other communities where fuel supply comes frem government lands. If mesquite proves to be timber it will almost become necessary to import ceal, since timber cannot be lawfully procured at any price.

The tax rolls have been turned over are new due. The total value exceed $2,500,000 while the total taxes due amount to $105,691.92.
